

Know Your Own Stomach. "Spring tonics" are for those who do not know that Nature must rebuild wasted tissue from the food they eat. Help Nature to throw off the toxins of a heavy Winter diet by eating Shredded Wheat Biscuit, a real whole wheat food that is prepared in a digestible form. Follow Nature's plan—get your strength from a simple, natural food that is thoroughly cooked and easily digested. Try it for breakfast with milk or cream; eat it for luncheon with berries or other fresh fruits; make it your "meat" for the Summer days. Made at Niagara Falls, N. Y.

HOW TO BE SLIM

If you are too fat and want to reduce your weight 15 or 20 pounds, don't starve and weaken your system, or think you must always be laughing at an account of your fat, but go to Chamberlain's, or any good drug store, and get a box of Oil of Chamberlain's, take one after each meal and one before retiring at night.

Weigh yourself once a week and note what a pleasant and reliable method this is for removing superfluous fat from any part of the body. It is harmless and a week's trial should convince anyone that it is unnecessary to be burdened with even a single pound of unsightly fat.

"Chamberlain's Tablets Have Done Wonders for Me."

"I have been a sufferer from stomach trouble for a number of years, and although I have used a great number of remedies recommended for this complaint, Chamberlain's Tablets is the first medicine that has given me positive and lasting relief," writes Mrs. Anna Kadu, Spencerport, N. Y. "Chamberlain's Tablets have done wonders for me, and I value them very highly. Obtainable everywhere."

Pretenders to Albanian Throne.
Paris, May 8 (2:45 p. m.)—A Hava dispatch from Athens says that several pretenders to the throne of Albania are conducting active propaganda. They are said to include Prince Cyrille of Bulgaria; Prince William of Wied, former ruler of the country, who has the support of Austria; and Prince Ali, who claims that a Turk should be selected as the Albanian sovereign.

PRODUCTION OF MINERALS LIKELY TO BREAK RECORD

Reports From Mining Sections of State Indicate That Output This Year Will Exceed Big Figures of Past.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, May 8.—Although the mineral production of New Mexico last year reached the $25,000,000 figure, yet this year it promises to exceed that output from every side come reports of new or increased production and values.

Merrillville mine in the Organ Mountains, larger ore bodies are being developed and two cars of high grade zinc ore have been shipped to Oklahoma, running about 60 per cent zinc. Work is progressing on the famous Torpedo and other mines at Organ recently taken over by the Phelps-Dodge interests.

In the Mesquitas operations have been resumed on the Deadwood mill and the Alberta mine.

Lessee are shipping 14 per cent copper ore from the Austin group, six miles northwest of Tyrone, Grant county. With only fifteen men at work, they shipped five carloads in one week, and $10,000 worth of ore has been taken out at a cost of only $600.

The two 300-ton units of the Burro Mountain Copper company mill at Tyrone are in operation. The machinery is driven by electricity with direct motors. The 3,000-ton storage bin supplies the No. 3 Symons crusher which reduces the ore to 3-inch size. A 48-inch sorting belt feeds the 15-inch Symons disc crushers, which will further reduce the ore to half inch.

The Empire Zinc company is to erect a mill for the treatment of the tailings from the concentrating mill at Pinos Altos, Grant county. Experiments with the oil flotation process have proved highly successful. The new plant will be driven by a 250-ton Snow type Diesel oil engine and the mill will have 150 tons a day capacity. The company ships a carload of concentrates daily.

Some 1,600 tons of guano have been located in caves nineteen miles north of Silver City and will be shipped to Los Angeles, bringing $40 a ton. The location was made by men from Steamboat Canyon, Colo.

Big Shipment of Steers.
Alamogordo, N. M., May 8.—Twenty-three carloads of steers were shipped from the Alamogordo stockyards Saturday. Seventeen cars were shipped by Herrick, S. D., being purchased by H. P. Palmer, who has ranches at that place. Six cars were shipped by S. F. Cox, and were billed to the Cox ranch at Bingham, Neb. John Snyder, of Alamogordo, was the contractor for the purchases. The steers were ones, twos, and three-year-olds. Among local stockmen who sold steers that were in this shipment were James A. Baird, James Sawyer, latero brothers, Johnnie Moore, Mr. Lane, G. D. Wofford, Eli Moser, Cleora Green, Ed Martin and a number of others. The steers were gathered from almost every part of the Sacramento valley and quite a few were brought down from the Sacramento mountains. The steers will be pastured throughout the summer and will be fattened for market in the fall. Several cars of steers were shipped from Tularosa, fourteen miles north of Alamogordo, on Sunday, being bought by the same parties, with John Snyder as the contractor. This is the first big shipment that has been made from the Alamogordo pens this spring, but it is a certainty that other shipments, perhaps bigger than this one, will follow.

EPISCOPAL DISTRICT FOR SOUTHWEST URGED
(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Santa Fe, May 8.—An Episcopal district of the Methodist church, to consist of New Mexico, Arizona, West Texas and Oklahoma, including 450 ministerial churches, was urged today at the Methodist general convention now in session at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., in a memorial presented by Dr. Alonzo Bright and Dr. E. H. Roberts, according to telegraphic advices received here today.

CHECK WRITER IS PAROLEE CONVICT, HE TELLS CHIEF

R. D. Nutt Believes an Operation on Head Would Remove His Desire to Use Pen; Bound Over.

R. D. Nutt, charged with uttering a worthless check, confessed to Chief J. R. Galusha late yesterday afternoon that he is an ex-convict. He was sentenced to the Arizona penitentiary to serve from seven to fourteen years for check writing, but was paroled in April. He began his term there in April, last year.

Nutt was arrested last week at Raton, N. M., at the direction of Chief Galusha, and brought to Albuquerque yesterday morning by Deputy Sheriff Gregorio Romero. Justice W. W. McCallahan bound him over to await the action of the grand jury. Nutt was charged with issuing only one check, but Chief Galusha was informed that he had written two others here.

Nutt asked Chief Galusha to telegraph his brother that he was in the "same trouble" here. His brother is in the mercantile business in Iowa. Nutt wanted the news kept from his mother. He believes that an operation on his head would remove his desire to write checks.

ROTARIANS MAKE OFFICIAL START; MEMBERSHIP 34

H. J. Brunner, of San Francisco, Governor of This District, Here for Installation of New Club.

With nearly the entire charter membership present the Albuquerque Rotary club began its official existence last night. Thirty business men attended. The original roster bears thirty-four names. The installation took place in the Taft room of the Alvarado hotel. The installation was presided over by H. J. Brunner, governor of the southwestern district, to which Albuquerque belongs, came from San Francisco for the installation of the local club. Mr. Brunner arrived yesterday afternoon and a committee from the club, Dr. A. G. Shortle, J. E. Goodell and C. O. Cushman, showed him Albuquerque in an automobile. Mr. Brunner left early this morning for Phoenix, Ariz.

The delegation of El Paso Rotarians did not come. The club received a telegram from El Paso, saying that it was thought there that the installation was to be held Tuesday night. They intended to leave El Paso last night. Letters of congratulation came from San Jose, San Francisco, and Pueblo, Colo., organizations.

Dr. A. G. Shortle is president and J. E. Goodell secretary of the club. They will hold office until June, when the annual election is to be held.

ARTESIA METHODISTS RAISE MORE THAN $700 AT BIG CHURCH SALE
(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE TO MORNING JOURNAL)
Artesia, N. M., May 8.—Perhaps the most unique public sale ever held in New Mexico was pulled off in Artesia Saturday, when the Methodist church of this place conducted a public auction for the benefit of the building fund of the congregation. They have on their hands an unfinished building which cost several thousand dollars, and which, when completed, will be one of the finest church houses in the southwest. W. F. Holloman, a local auctioneer, suggested that they call for donations in the shape of household goods, household furniture, and anything else saleable, which might be auctioned off without cost and the proceeds devoted to the building fund. The idea took, and perhaps the first donation received was a year's subscription to the Albuquerque Morning Journal, which, by the way, was sold at full price as soon as it was put up. People from all over Eddy county, the Pecos valley and the entire southwest came to the sale. There was no expense connected with it at all, as the clerk's fees, the auctioneer's fees and the printing was donated.

There was over $725 worth of stuff disposed of at the sale, which included every article known to civilized man. Farmers donated hogs, chickens, mules, cows, horses and farm machinery and the townspeople sent in furniture, fancy wares and, as the bills said "many other articles too numerous to mention." But the most interesting thing about the sale was the fact that the ladies served a lunch close by the sale grounds, and cleared $36. The young ladies held a cake sale and cleared $11, and the little girls sold candy and cleared $3. As a matter of fact there was one thing they overlooked. There were, by actual count, fourteen candidates in town that day, who had come to Artesia knowing that the sale would draw people from all over the county. They were allowed inside the auction room, free of charge, when it would have been no more than fair to have charged them at least a dollar each for the privilege of mingling with the voters.

To Begin New Church.
Santa Fe, May 8.—Ground will be broken tomorrow by Contractor Diagne for a new Roman Catholic chapel at Cienega, ten miles south of Santa Fe. It is a historic site and nearby are the remains of an ancient Indian pueblo.

GERMAN WOMEN NOT HARMONIOUS ABOUT SUFFRAGE

Consolidation of Two Organizations Working for Franchise Brings About Rupture Between Factions.

(Associated Press Correspondence.)
Berlin, April 20.—The consolidation at Weimar of the German Alliance for Women's Franchise and the German Association for Women's Franchise into the Imperial Alliance for Women's Franchise was far from being such an indication of harmony within the ranks of the suffragists as it appeared on the surface. On the contrary, it marked the definite rupture between the two main wings of the women's movement toward which the events of the last six years have been pointing, and the at least temporary ascendancy of the conservative wing. The new organization does not include any of the women who were the pioneers in the women's suffrage movement in Germany. All have either resigned or been forced out.

The women's suffrage movement in Germany began in 1895. At that time the women of Prussia had almost no political rights. They could neither hold nor attend political meetings, and a woman's meeting of any kind was liable to instant dissolution by the police on guard if a political theme was touched on. The socialists had for years, true to their party platform, which demands equal suffrage, been agitating along this line, but had been able to accomplish little in the face of the police persecution to which they were subjected. The non-socialist women, however, had made no move whatever along these lines.

Political Meeting Held.
In 1895 Frau Minna Cauer of Berlin decided on the bold step of attempting to hold a political meeting for women. Lilli Braun, another pioneer in the movement, made an address on "The Duty of Woman as a Citizen." Frau Dr. Augustburg, who was also to become a prominent suffragist leader, assisted in the arrangements for the meeting, which luckily passed off successfully. This was the first non-socialist political equality meeting ever held in Prussia.

Propaganda work was continued for the next few years in the face of great difficulties, and in 1905 Frau Heymann, Dr. Augustburg, Frau Cauer and others established at Hamburg, which, as a republic, had more liberal laws than Prussia—the Women's Franchise Union (Verein fuer Frauenstimmrecht). This union, although of necessity founded in Hamburg, set about the battle throughout Germany. At first the contest was especially directed against the Prussian law prohibiting women from holding or attending political meetings, and against similar restrictive laws in other federal states. The hardest battle was naturally that in Prussia. Here the police were deliberately provoked to action, but they confined their attention chiefly to socialist authorities, and the non-socialist movement gained steadily in strength.

This was the situation when, in 1904, Dr. Augustburg and Frau Cauer were commissioned by Susan R. Anthony, Anna Howard Shaw and Carrie Chapman Catt to organize in Germany a branch of the international association. It was in this year that the world's congress of woman suffragists was held in Berlin, in connection with which the German branch was organized under the leadership of Miss Anthony, despite the law forbidding such meetings as were held to organize it. A small number of German men assisted in the work, and the meetings were held in large part in private homes.

Growth of Movement.
By 1907 the movement had grown to such proportions that it was possible for the women suffragists to hold a congress at Frankfurt, where they organized the German Alliance for Women's Franchise, one of the two associations just consolidated at Weimar. The platform of the alliance demanded the active and passive franchise for women in all law-giving bodies, "on the basis of the reichstag franchise." The phrase quoted proved to be the rock on which the women's movement eventually split. For a better understanding of its importance it must be borne in mind that the reichstag franchise is direct, secret and universal, in contrast to the three-class, indirect, non-secret franchise of Prussia, the medieval system of the Mecklenburg grand duchies and the otherwise restricted franchise of certain other German states.

The following year Prussia adopted a new law, which granted women the right to hold and attend political meetings. One of the women's strongest champions was Bebel, and the only serious opposition came from the conservatives. Conservative opposition within the ranks of the women themselves first showed its head in 1907, with the organization in western Germany of the German Association for Women's Franchise. While this association proclaimed as its purpose the securing of the vote for women, its constitution omitted any reference to the reichstag franchise.

Suffrage Club Formed.
Frau Cauer organized in the same year the Prussian Provincial Women's Suffrage club. Other pioneers in the movement grouped themselves about her, and the organization was rapidly extended to all parts of Prussia. Like the original alliance, the provincial organization incorporated in its constitution a demand for equal suffrage "on the basis of the reichstag franchise." Soon, however, a counter movement was started within the provincial organization itself, its purpose being the dropping of the demand for the reichstag franchise. It gained strength rapidly in the conservative state, and in 1912 Frau Cauer resigned the presidency. A particularly lively internal conflict the following year led to the resignation of all the other original leaders of the women's movement, including Dr. Augustburg, and Frau Heymann. Since then none of the original founders has been identified with the older organizations.

Dr. Augustburg and Frau Heymann then organized the German Women's Franchise union, whose constitution demands political equality and the reichstag franchise for women. This union now has from 3,600 to 4,000 members. The new imperial association, formed at Weimar, has perhaps 8,000. Its chief demand is for votes for women in municipal affairs. It has quite receded from the demand for a direct, universal and secret ballot, and the leaders of the original movement, as well as the socialists, declare that its organization was a long step backward. Defenders of the new organization say there will be plenty of opportunity to reform franchise system after they have secured equality with the men voters.

Little Headway Made.

Woman suffrage, absolutely considered, has made little headway in Germany. Municipalities are calling to women in ever increasing numbers to honorary positions, particularly for poor relief, and the care of orphans, but the number of women officials holding salaried positions except those of school teacher remains inconsequential. In forty-five larger German cities last year 10,560 women held honorary (unpaid) positions and only 897 (excluding school teachers) received salaries. The showing is even poorer in the smaller municipalities, figures for 1913—the latest available at the moment—for 559 places showing 19,939 women in honorary positions and only 1,021, or 5.8 per cent of the whole, in salaried places. The limitations under which woman's influence is supposed in Germany to suffer are exhibited by the fact that in the forty-five cities referred to nearly 10,000 of the 10,560 women holding honorary positions are in the two departments of poor relief and care of orphans, while school work is entrusted to only 392. Only eighty-two of the 897 women receiving salaries are connected with the school work, and not one of these is in the department of school administration. The number is made up of nurses, doctors and dentists.

The two great obstacles to the women's suffrage movement in Germany are the almost unanimous opposition of the German men and the indifference of the women themselves to political activity. Restrictive laws, it is true, play some part in keeping women from even honorary municipal positions. No married woman, for instance, can assume a guardianship for a child without her husband's consent. But on the whole, the two factors named remain the great hindrance.

MY TIRED FEET ACHE FOR "TIZ"

Let Your Sore, Swollen, Aching Feet Spread Out in a Bath of "Tiz."

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-poisoned, blisters-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wiggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's perfectly glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture. Get a 25-cent box of "Tiz" at any drug or department store—don't wait. Ah! how glad your feet get; how comfortable your shoes feel. You can wear shoes a size smaller if you desire.

HEADACHES

Thousands of men and women suffer from headaches every day, other thousands have headaches every week or even month, and still others have headaches occasionally, but not as regular intervals. The best doctor is often unable to find the cause of many of these headaches, and in most cases, knowing the cause, he does not know what will remove it, so as to give a permanent cure. All he can do is to prescribe the usual pain relievers, which give temporary relief, but the headache returns as usual, and treatment is again necessary. If you suffer from headaches, no matter what their nature, take A-K Tablets. Large Audience Hears Concert at University

The commencement concert given last night at the university was enjoyed by a large and appreciative audience of music lovers. E. Stanley Seder, professor of the department of music, acted as director, and had arranged his program in real concert form. Mr. Seder has made a brilliant record for himself in musical circles of the southwest. His rendition of several numbers last night proved that his career as a pianist promises much. Mr. Seder was assisted by Mrs. J. O. Schwenker, soprano; Mrs. Mabel Stevens (Hime), pianist; Miss Mary C. Broder, reader; Robert T. Sewell, baritone, and E. Leroy Yott, violinist.

Grandmother's Medicines
Our grandmothers were wise in the virtues of the herbs of the field. They used to gather and store roots and herbs and use them to cure the ailments of their families—wormwood, thoroughwort, sage, rue, camomile—the list might go on and on of the healing plants with which they made us familiar.

Now their grand-daughters get the extracts from just such good old roots and herbs, from the nearest druggist.
